My age is irrelevant as far as qualifying for HOPWA placement housing. Since 2005 I have been chased out of my good standibg tenancy (.tenant to tenant ) in a repeating cycle of discord rooted t be solved from the HIV community management ( ASOs ) and housing property and building managements several times what I mean by good standing with my

the community peer level to tenant. I was not a trouble maker tenant making chaos for the building residence.

No, that was not the source of conflict that arose.

What festers up is a methodologies of hate and harassment conducted by a community against one member attempting to improve and build resources.

Ever since I first encountered this hate paradigm characters involved in management of aryan White funding in a community targeted against me.

Cascading downward has always led to a failure of my tenancy which is the target source they attacked me. The point of most vulnerable that eventually collapsed my tenancy to repeating cycles of homelessness since 2005.

I can prove that the fault does not lie on my efforts to build up community relationships and affairs. Where I stand today?

I am spending $800.a months for a room and board shared house with about 10 other residents beds there.

I am stuck in San Bernardino County being blacked balled from social services such as Foothill Aids Project here in San Bernardino. ( Note their Google, Glassdoor, and Indeed Reviews ).

The reviews call for a complete overhaul of management. I have been lifetime banned from services.

I have declared the conflict and continuous environment I am living here in San Bernardino since my return to my hometown in July 2016 as nightmarish.

I will never be free from what is a crime being committed against me.

That crime is defined at mylawquestion.com

I am a targeted individual of gangstalking.

This disconnection from social services as well as doctor provider care in HIV has basically placed me into a catastrophic failure of HIV Treatment.

Last January, I made a despatate forced dislocation to travel by Greyhound Bus and crash onto the streets of Los Angeles to attempt to get care when my CD4/CD8 ratio was at 0.38. 38 points down from normalized ratio blood work values. See image attached with actual LabCorp online blood work screen shots and a shelleon representing my death from HIV/Aids. A recent Facebook post to a friend's timeline.

I'm HIV with a CD4 cd8 ratio recent results 0.25 reflecting that I'm dying of a disease I should not be dying from. Who is at fault? Why is this not an emergency? Do I have to become unconscious to become an emergency? Discharge from St Bernadine's hospital ( dignity health system ) with instructions to come back at 8:00 a.m. because they failed to give me a social service person in my care to secure HIV doctor provider. Something seriously wrong here can anybody help me before I die will anybody help me before I die help me help me help me don't tell me!

Fact Checked
What Is Gang Stalking?
Maggie J. Hall

Last Modified Date: November 17, 2023

Gang stalking refers to harassment and intimidation tactics used by a group of individuals against another person or toward a smaller group of people. People may initiate this type of civil offense because they are intolerant of another person for numerous reasons, which might include differing beliefs or lifestyles, jealousy, or racial prejudice. Stalkers generally design the covert methods used for psychological harassment to exact revenge, coerce silence, or cast out persons having opposing views. While gang stalking is considered a misdemeanor in some states, the offense carries felony penalties in others.

The number of people involved in the gang varies. Individuals might receive gang intimidation from a handful of people in a work environment, or they may be targeted by an entire community. Victims relaying claims of gang stalking perceive the attackers as well-organized groups of people, who not only communicate with one another in a certain location but also pursue the target in other areas by means of extensive contacts. Leaders generally enlist the aid of other individuals in the gang by various methods, which typically include providing false information about the victim, manipulating potential members, or employing those with similar criminal backgrounds.

Jealousy may be a cause of gang stalking.

Victims may be from any gender or socioeconomic background. These persons may outperform other co-workers, or have a set of standards that separates them from other people in an environment. Gang stalking frequently uses practices meant to destroy the victim's qualities. These acts might include blaming the target for a gang member's mistakes or taking credit for what the victim accomplished. In an effort to discredit a person or to add to the weaponry for the attack gang stalkers may perpetuate the notion that the target is mentally impaired or dangerous in some manner, forcing the person to undergo evaluation.

Want to save up to 30% on your monthly bills? This tool helps you do just that.

The list of physical tactics used against victims generally includes stalking behavior and unwanted attention.

The list of physical tactics used against victims generally includes stalking behavior and unwanted attention. The majority of persons under attack report that stalkers frequently mirror the victim's behavior. Gang stalking might include mirroring physical gestures or verbal comments. Many victims relay that gang members often enter or leave properties and other locations at the same time as the target. Victims also frequently report that stalkers often repeat private conversations occurring in a home environment or over the phone.

Gang stalking targets might also experience hang-up calls or calls from wrong phone numbers throughout the day. Attackers may enter homes illegally or employ the assistance of the target's friends or family. In an attempt to confuse the victim or to cause them to doubt their own logic and reasoning, stalkers might rearrange or steal personal items in the work place or home. The criminal offenses of stalkers may become more aggressive or violent against the target, family members or pets.

Is Gang Stalking Real?

"Gang stalking" does not necessarily mean you are being stalked by a street gang (they usually have bigger fish to fry, unless you have crossed them in some way). The term simply refers to a form of bullying by groups against an individual or smaller groups. Sadly, this behavior is common among school children and teens, especially when the victims are different or stand out in some way. However, it can also happen with adults in the workplace, on college campuses and other places.

There are all kinds of motivations for gang stalking. Intolerance, prejudice, homophobia and racism are certainly among them, but often, the reasons are more personal. Envy or jealousy, fear of "the other," intimidation and exclusion or ostracization are also common motivators. So are vindictiveness and revenge. Sometimes, there is no apparent reason. This kind of behavior, known to behaviorists and biologists and as "mobbing," appears to happen among most mammal species.

Gang stalking can take multiple forms. It may be perpetrated by a loose association of people who just happen to have it in for the victim(s), or it can be a highly orchestrated campaign by a larger group, or even an entire community. Gang stalking usually happens in the brick-and-mortar world, but thanks to social media and the Internet, it can happen online as well. It needn't be threats of physical violence; under the cloak of Web-based anonymity, stalkers can continue to harass and post libelous stories about their victims. Victims may also receive relentless, harassing telephone calls.

Gang stalking is considered a crime, though it may be a misdemeanor or a felony, depending on the jurisdiction and what form the stalking/bullying takes. If factors such as racism or antisemitism come into the equation, it may be considered a hate crime, which is a Federal offense.

Although gang stalking appears to be on the rise, it only seems that way. The good news is that more victims are speaking out and reporting such behavior when it affects them.

How To Stop Gang Stalking

One tactic that gang stalkers use is referred to as "gaslighting." The phrase comes from an old movie in which a murderer marries his victim's niece, then uses a series of lies, half-truths and other kinds of manipulation in order to convince her that she is going insane. The victim may find themselves the target of blame, or the gang might attempt to publicly discredit them or insinuate that they suffer from some mental disorder or delusion. Understand that it is not your imagination, that what you are being put through is very real. Have confidence (which can be challenging under the circumstances) and learn to trust yourself.

After that, the most important thing you can do is to document everything. Fortunately, modern technology has given us a plethora of tools for recording all kinds of events. It has often been said that sunlight is the best disinfectant; shine as much light on the situation as possible. If you can, enlist the aid of trusted friends and family to help in keeping records of what is going on.

Although gang stalkers are not always violent, it's a good idea to protect yourself. Wear a helmet if you are out cycling, and carry pepper spray if it is legal in your jurisdiction, or some kind of an alarm. When out and about, whether in public, campus or the office, stay in heavily-trafficked areas where everyone can see what is happening.

What to Do About Gang Stalking

If you find that you are being harassed because of your race, ethnicity, religious beliefs or sexuality, you should know that you have allies and support. For example, if you are African-American, you can turn to the NAACP, or even the ACLU for help and resources. Similar organizations for frequently-targeted groups include:

Council on American-Islamic Relations
Las Americas Immigrant Advocacy Center
Black Lives Matter
Anti-Defamation League

Those who find themselves stalked, harassed and bullied for other reasons also have options. Most companies and academic institutions have personnel whose job it is to address such problems. Otherwise, the adage, "If you see something, say something" still applies. Even if you are not the victim, if you know of someone who is a victim of gang stalking, report it to law enforcement. If you are being harassed over the phone, contact your carrier, as they may be able to take some action (although these days of caller ID, phone harassment is much easier to avoid).

Frequently Asked Questions

What are the most common gang stalking techniques?

Gang stalking strategies include following the victim, monitoring, spreading false rumors, gaslighting, systematic harassment, and even physical attack. The goal is to make the victim feel untrustworthy, suspicious, and isolated. These methods can be carried out by a single person or by a group of people working together.

Who are the gang stalking perpetrators?

Gang stalkers might be strangers, acquaintances, or somebody the victim knows well, such as family members or employees. They may be motivated by vengeance, jealousy, or a desire for power and control. Gang stalkers are sometimes part of organized groups like hate groups or cults.

What are the consequences of gang stalking on victims?

Victims of gang stalking may have a wide range of emotional, psychological, and physical consequences. They may suffer fear, anxiety, paranoia, and feelings of isolation. Victims may have sleep difficulties, loss of appetite, and somatic symptoms such as headaches and nausea. What types of methods are commonly used in gang stalking?

Gang stalking can take many forms, but some of the more common ones include following the victim about, performing surveillance, spreading false rumors, gaslighting, coordinated harassment, and even physically assaulting the victim. The goal is to make the victim feel isolated from everyone else, paranoid, and unable to trust anyone. These strategies can be implemented by a single individual or by a group of people working together.

Who are the people that are responsible for gang stalking?

Group stalking can be performed by anyone, including strangers, acquaintances, or even people the victim knows well, such as family members or coworkers at their workplace. They may be motivated by vengeance, envy, or a desire to assert power and control over others. Occasionally, members of organized groups, such as hate groups or cults, are the perpetrators of gang stalking against others.

What are the ramifications of gang stalking on the people it targets?

Victims of gang stalking may suffer from a wide range of emotional, psychological, and physical consequences. They might experience fear, anxiety, paranoia, and loneliness. Victims may also endure difficulties sleeping, loss of appetite, and a variety of unpleasant physiological symptoms such as headaches and nausea. The victim's ability to work, interact with others, and carry out daily duties may be impeded as a result of the harassment.

Is gang stalking a crime?

Although gang stalking is unlikely to constitute a criminal offense in and of itself, many of the activities used in gang stalking are prohibited, including harassment, stalking, and destruction. A criminal conspiracy could be formed if the criminals work together in a coordinated manner. People who have been the victim of gang stalking should keep a record of all harassment episodes and report them to the appropriate authorities.

How can victims of group stalking protect themselves?

Victims of gang stalking should alter their routines, travel routes, and home security. Every harassment event must be documented, including the date, time, and location, and reported to the appropriate authorities as soon as possible. Mental health specialists can assist victims in coping with the psychological impacts of harassment. Organizations also help victims of gang stalking.

Thank you from the bottom of my heart for reporting on this.

People, report the actions happening so there can be more awareness everywhere! I'm sure if we work together and raise awareness, we can win! And stop this madness. They are making innocent people take their lives. Lets put an end to this by reporting it to law enforcement and any organization. Instead of living with this crap, let's fight against the oppression thrown our way. We are strong. If we can handle the crap happening to us, we can handle raising more awareness so we can save lives!

ANON1005952DECEMBER 28, 2021

In 2018 I was gangstalked by a group of Proud Boys in the workplace. These guys were organized and had their "story" together to refute my accusations when I reported it to management. I had to hire outside consultation (aka private attorney) to take care of this for me and to call these boys out on their crap. What this article portrays is accurate, from what I experienced. Thank you.

ANON1005907DECEMBER 15, 2021

This is interesting.

ANON1005837DECEMBER 1, 2021

This is also happening to me, but there is not one thing anyone can do. It's way too big. All we can do is ignore it and live our lives happy and content and show them they cannot break us; we are survivors.

ANON1005403AUGUST 20, 2021

It's happening to me. My 16 year old daughter has gone to live with a friend over it. They (no idea who) are in every aspect of my life. They've taken over my Google account Samsung, Yahoo etc. I thought I was going to go crazy, but now I've decided to fight back. They'll never know when I'm recording, videoing etc. I'm going to get my life back!

ANON1004636MARCH 19, 2021

Gang Stalking is alive and not well.

ANON1003730AUGUST 27, 2020

This is happening to me, my daughter who is only 14, and my service animal as well. It's highly illegal, it's a federal crime. I'm tired of it! We've been pushing back now and I will keep pushing back, until they are all exposed. Ignorance is no excuse! Those who participate are as guilty as those who orchestrate! They all need to be held responsible for their actions.

They killed my best friend with their non stop crap -- he took his own life. I wish I could rewind time, and believe what he was telling me. I thought he was just being paranoid. He wasn't, and I know that now. I will not let go of this until justice is served. It's wrong, sick, bullying, downright messed up! Awareness will help. And law enforcement, does participate. Not all. But yes, protect and serve? Think about that, law enforcement officers. It's wrong, it's a hate crime, and it's illegal.

This is sick and justice shall prevail!

ANON345916AUGUST 23, 2013

The presence of this in our current cultural climate has increased exponentially. With the lack of integrity and honesty in our culture growing, I don't see this being a downward trend.

Employers are doing it in collusion friends and business associates. Families are doing it to family members. Friends are doing it to 'friends'.

As much as people want to stop what is happening to them, they realize they just have to deal with it day in and day out, because the perpetrators have covered their tracks effectively.

ANON343398JULY 30, 2013

It has been happening to me for about five years. I am being listened to. They have looked up my whole family and all my past relationships, even though I have been faithfully married for 43 years.

It has been intimidated it's legal, they had a need to know, they are watching me--etc. They did it to my daughter too. She went into mental health custody because of it. It is exhausting as it goes on 24/7.

There have been cross burnings, stolen trucks, missing things in the home. Just ongoing harassment and creepy stuff, four dead pets plus another burned cat that did not belong to me.

It has been community wide, and I probably will contact the FBI, as local authorities are stretched to the limit. This is five years of my life that I've lived in fear.

ANON248904FEBRUARY 19, 2012

Gangstalking is a myth. But it's still happening. You have to ask yourself, how? How does it work? Are you being stalked, harassed, chemtrailed or mind controlled? Can't figure out what is going on? This is what they are doing, and this is how they do it. Open your eyes.

Well, San Bernardino PD doesn't have authority over the CIA or FBI. You're being investigated, and provoked. Sometimes, people do things that get them into a little bit of trouble, but then there's much more powerful people who want you to get yourself in much more trouble, so they can really punish you, or get rid of you, no questions asked. The media gets a scare story out of it, and the status quo is maintained another day.

All officials at high enough levels are aware of this, including police departments, save the low level officers who just take their orders, and know enough to only deliver vague information directly from superiors. Basically, you're not exposing this to anyone who can immediately do anything about it, and even if they could, they probably aren't interested in doing so. Unfortunately, it's just a bunch of other powerless people in the exact same boat listening, including me.

I know how much it sucks, and I'm sorry this is our lives, but don't let them take your dignity, or your sanity, and forgive them. Think of being so scared of other people that you need to tease them like a middle school child, as you hide behind conspiracy level surveillance systems, and billions of dollars in weapons and infrastructure, probably just because someone typed the wrong thing into their google search bar.

Again, I'm really sorry, I don't really know what to do either but keep getting through days, and enjoying what I can as a recluse.

All police departments allow this nonsensical practice. Imagine you spot a sketchy person and upon making others aware of said person they make You aware that they are part of an investigation. My advice is try to get on the other side of things, like for example instead of being followed you are being escorted... Instead of being watched you are being admired.

What to Know About the CD4:CD8 Ratio Test

Medically Reviewed by Dany P. Baby, MD on May 04, 2022 Written by Parang Mehta

4 min read

CD4 and CD8 are two types of white blood cells in your blood. CD4 cells are also called T-helper cells, T-suppressor cells, and cytotoxic T-cells. They help the body fight infections. CD8 cells are also called cytotoxic T-lymphocytes. They help fight cancer and germs that live inside your cells (intracellular pathogens). The human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) chiefly targets CD4 cells. A reduced number of these cells and a change in the CD4:CD8 ratio are signs of HIV infection. The CD4:CD8 ratio helps your physician judge disease activity and your response to treatment.

CD4 Cell Count

The CD4 cell count is a good measure of the activity of the HIV infection and the success of the treatment. Normal CD4 numbers in the blood range between 500 to 1200 per cubic millimeter. The normal range for CD8 is 150 to 1000 per cubic millimeter. A CD4:CD8 ratio of more than 1.0 is considered normal. A CD4 count below 200 per cubic millimeters shows that you have acquired immunodeficiency syndrome (AIDS). Low CD4 counts are also seen in bone marrow suppression because of chemotherapy, long-standing infections, and some types of anemia.

Once you start ART (antiretroviral therapy, a combination of antiviral medicines), your CD4 cell count increases gradually. Your physician will get your CD4 count tested every 3 to 6 months. The return of the CD4 count to normal levels (500 per cubic millimeter) is a sign that the HIV infection is under control.

CD4:CD8 Ratio

Traditionally, CD4 counts and viral loads were used to judge the body's response to HIV treatment. But you may be experiencing a weakening of your immune system despite having a normal CD4 count. The CD4:CD8 ratio is more useful in judging the immune system's function. People with HIV and a low CD4:CD8 ratio have increased frailty and mortality.

The total CD4 number, their proportion (CD4 percentage), and their ratio to CD8 cells (CD4:CD8 ratio) are tests used to guide HIV treatment. A CD4:CD8 ratio of more than 1.0 is considered normal. A low ratio (more CD8 cells than CD4) is often seen in HIV infections.

The CD4:CD8 ratio test judges the strength of your immune system. It also tells your physician if you are at risk for opportunistic infections like pneumocystis pneumonia. Your physician may want to protect you by prescribing some medicines.

A low CD4:CD8 ratio during treatment predicts that the virus hasn't been completely removed from your blood. If treatment begins early in the course of an HIV infection, your CD4:CD8 ratio is likely to become normal in about 6 years. Late and irregular treatments are associated with this test remaining abnormal.

The currently used antiretroviral drugs are very effective. Viral loads become undetectable in the blood, and the CD4 count returns to normal with some years of treatment. But several complications of AIDS still happen. The CD4:CD8 ratio is more accurate at predicting the risk of AIDS-associated cancers such as Kaposi's sarcoma and non-Hodgkins lymphoma.

Low CD4:CD8 Ratio

This test is most often done to assess HIV infection status, but it also helps in the diagnosis and monitoring of other diseases:

Infectious mononucleosis

Chronic lymphocytic leukemia

Hodgkin disease (lymphoma)

Aplastic anemia

Multiple sclerosis

Myasthenia gravis

DiGeorge syndrome

Organ transplantation

High CD4/CD8 Ratio

The CD4:CD8 ratio can be high in:

Major bacterial infection

Viral infection

Some types of blood cancer

Testing for HIV

HIV is the most frequent reason for abnormal CD4:CD8 ratios. But this test should not be used to diagnose an HIV infection. Your physician will ask for antigen, antibody, or nucleic acid tests to diagnose an HIV infection.

Once your physician has diagnosed HIV, they will start treatment. The CD4:CD8 ratio test and the CD4 cell count are helpful in assessing the progress of the infection. Your physician uses these tests to know if your infection is under control and whether you are at risk of complications.

Another way to assess the progress of the HIV infection is to test the viral load. This measures the amount of HIV in your blood. A high viral load means that your immune system is not fighting the virus well. Your physician will test your viral load every 4 to 6 months, and will also test it if they change your medicines.

High CD8 Counts

Your doctor monitors CD8 counts frequently while you are on treatment for HIV. If your CD8 count is high, it means your viral load is low. Your CD4 count is likely to return to normal levels. CD8 cells are important in the body's defense against HIV, and high CD8 count means that your body is effectively controlling the infection.

If your CD8 counts have been low or normal for some time and then become high, your physician is warned that treatment failure is about to happen. The CD8 cells increase in response to increasing viral load. Treatment failures happen in 20% to 40% of people on ART. Your doctor will ask if you're regular about taking your medicines, and consider other causes of treatment failure.

HIV infection is a deadly disease a few decades ago. People with untreated AIDS usually die within three years. With treatment and proper monitoring, people with HIV can live long and productive lives. CD4 counts, viral loads, and the CD4:CD8 ratio tests help your physician judge your disease control and fine-tune your treatment. Getting these tests done regularly will help you keep the infection under control.

Requires Reaching To New Understandings of what is "The Dirty" that is made in this 911 SOS Urgent Address To Former President Barack Obama as having an interceding "Moral Responsibility" due to the fact that he placed pen to paper and signed the reauthorization of the Ryan White Care Act that has been severely abused to have massive and grave consequences with actual casualties in our HIV communities across this nation of uncountable and invisible and highly unnecessary and preventable HIV Deaths.

A secret agenda observed for a long term period conspiracy that the Trump policy change doubles down on that belief of faith. This enforces a very harmful policy rule that persons living with HIV deserve to die by preventable HIV Death by intentionally obstructing life wellness outcomes, ensuing chaos harassment and intentional forced direction persecutions into insurmountable walls of oppression [ obviously defined ] by a cause of intent by persons in the system to sentence members they dislike within the HIV communities nationally region to region to perpetual states of homelessness living with HIV/AIDS disease in the United States of America.

As a systemic problem SHOUTS a message from the system as an interfering hate paradigm against community members and the entire HIV community as:

"Go *uck Off And Die!"

-----
Over the past several months, I have attempted to have my correspondence with the acting CDC HIV Director Doctor
Jonathan Mermin acknowledged and responded on.

I am desiring an official authority of an agency to respond a response of responsibility.

At first, the introduction was on Twitter and he immediately acted to violate my citizen's rights by blocking my account on twitter. The concerns that I am needing to discuss is how the I personally have lived through two regional attacks of hate, harassment, and retaliation campaigns targeted against me to remove me and my HIV Housing residency from these communities. In the most recent case from the regional service area of Denver Colorado, it would become apparent after my defeat of my eviction case that right before I left the Denver area for my hometown of San Bernardino I named Jamie Villalobos regional director of the Colorado Health Network the puppeteer of this hate campaign targeted against me.

That reflection of mine was made in a facebook live video recorded a couple of days before I left town. It would not become self-evident who is responsible and should be held accountable until the first reports two weeks after I left town. This by negative outlook employee
Glassdoor reviews for Colorado

Health Network. This was in July of 2017.

Reports reflect, "Dishonest Business Practices, To Stay Away. They Violate The Privacy of Clients, one report noted that "If you don't gossip like a teenager, you will be an outsider" and another report says they had a big investigation of racism and discrimination. Two employees quit. The investigation was reported as inconclusive.

The author of that last mention has this to say in conclusion:

Q: "How can an organization thrive when a top official is racist? If you are a woman or person of color, it is very hard to move up in the org and be heard. If you are a cute, white male, you will do well in this company"

A: The reason is that there is a hate conspiracy here affecting motives of unprofessional actions, interferences, and retaliation against dissenters, and protection for wrongdoing that soars all of the way up the chain to the CDC HIV Director as my attempts to uproot this at every single level - attempted --- to get a response to conduct an accepted complaint to be processed and acted on. So far that has not yet occurred.

At the time of the Colorado Health Network investigation report, that may have been found inconclusive. But looking at it from a fully vetted and documented perspective from this time 2019 looking at the entire umbrella of hate protecting this system by inputting and taking into account the collective reporting of similarly structured and worded Glassdoor negative outlook employee reviews of this dysfunctional foundational set forth within --- a corrosive of trust --- in the Ryan White Care Act funded social service agencies region to region, that this hate conspiracy is top rooted founded in the CDC administration of the HIV Treatment and Prevention program as a federal program of government-sponsored hate.

As the entire system is protecting the haters and that the haters have been allowed to win, there is no accountability for when the directors and leaders of the agencies themselves injure the community to which they are supposed to be serving. In the case of Colorado Health Network, no one has been taken aside and reprimanded. The person must be held accountable for these concerns is CDC HIV Director Doctor Jonathan Harry Mermin.

Pros

None come to mind at the moment and I am really trying to come up with one or two.

Cons

-Executive Director angry and VERY retaliatory. - Mismanagement of grant funds. AGAIN. -Executive Director still there even after extortion case. - Very unorganized . -Favoritism if your in the click. If not oh well. - Treats employees and clients like they are nothing. -Low pay for an extreme amount of committment. -ZERO ROOM FOR ADVANCEMENT. -If I could leave zero stars i would.. -I'm sure you get the picture.

Advice to Management

Restructure the entire organization starting at the top and working down. Why the Board does not see where the problem lies is beyond me which makes me look at the Board as well.

Disappointment and Mendacity [ Cascade Aids Project ]

Cons

Management is hostile to the union represented staff. The organization only works with a narrow part of the community yet markets something different to look more comprehensive than it is. Much of upper management is threatened by change, is conflict avoidant to the point of dysfunction and is retaliatory when confronted. Often, people with poor skills are promoted to leadership and this creates frustration and a sense of unfairness highlighting backroom agreements meant to undermine. Morale is dreadful. In the past few years most staff have been fired, pressured to leave, or asked to work with compromised ethics. Gay, black, HIV+, and trans identified staff have been systematically marginalized. CAP treated HIV+ staff as second class citizens, ignored client request for change, and silences critics. If you go against CAP, even if justified, you will find it hard to work in the HIV community in Portland. The board is completely distant from the staff and the clients being served, and act condescending and unhelpful. You would think if 50% of the staff leave in a few months time, it might be a wake up call that there are big problems that can't be dismissed as "disgruntled" staff. Since CAP is the only game in town for HIV related needs, they have no checks and balances and no accountability when they injure the community they are claiming they serve.

This agency is FRAUDULANT in its services and practices when it comes to serving the HIV population and utilizing Ryan White Funding. My recommendation for any HIV client interested in signing with them is to run as far and as fast as you can...they treat HIV consumers with contempt and unprofessionlism.

DEAR PUBLIC --- Please Sign this petition, call me and call the CDC to compel a response from the agency in these regards. My number is 909-763-8481 and my name is Martin.

Please involve yourself in the VERY DETAILED ACCOUNT of these circumstances. The proof of conspiracy is found by the non-professional actions against me individually and the reported conditions of agency involvements in dysfunctional employee work environments that not only is negatively impacting client standards of service quality and care but are actually a force of injury upon the HIV Communities nationally region to region that must be acknowledged and addressed. So far, no one in official authority has given a response to these documentations of multiple sources reporting this situation as haters run-a-muck and haters being allowed to win. This is an unacceptable condition of health in our country.
